TRY IN LOMOND FIRST

THE PRESS desires to continue the debate on "Try in Lomond First." So far there has been no stupendous reaction in the business morals of the buying public, nor any manifest interest on the part of the merchants collectively. The articles have been widely read, that we know. But the mere reading of these articles will never solve any difficulties or create any better understanding between the two factions concerned.

These economic questions that are the subject of so much concern to people like ourselves, appear to us to be largely accentuated by the individual spirit of "grab boys, grab, and to hell with the other fellow." We talk co-operation till the air is blue, and all the time practise individualism. We have not yet 'evolved' to that utopian plane where deference is paid the other fellow. Perhaps it will see improvement in the next few generations, since our educational institutions are being aided by the functioning of consolidated schools (et al). One thing is profoundly in evidence and that is the farmer, as a class, is the poorest marketer on the earth—both at buying and selling. In the light of this fact, which, by the way, is not particularly of our own origin and conclusion, we may be excused for butting in on the affairs of the community. These dry years afford us ample opportunity to polish up our business and social moral standards. Now, if you as a farmer, feel no obligation toward your own town, we are not going to call you to the sawdust trail. Of course your land is just as valuable as it was before the advent of the railway made a town possible. The home-stead isolation occasioned no hardship at all. If a home town means nothing to you, keep on with an open mind supporting the city catalogue houses. On the other hand, if your town appeals to you as a step of progress, advance at least fifty-one per cent of the way toward an amicable understanding with merchants. We have personally found these special advances toward the local merchants were a source of economy. Perhaps you can meet with the same satisfactory results.

o o o o o

Just at present the people around Lomond have before them a lucid example of the public conception of co-operation. The remarks we make are general, and we are pleased to note a few individual exceptions. In 1915 the farmers associated themselves in business to save themselves money in the lumber business. Through lack of foresight a start was made handicapped by undercapitalization. In 1916 and 1917 a general saving to the public was effected conservatively estimated at fifty thousand dollars, yet in spite of all appeals the two hundred and forty shareholders never increased their subscriptions above a total of thirty-five hundred dollars. All this time the people have cursed and raved because their outfit could not keep up appearances against existing competitors who had unlimited capital at their disposal. As a result, things have been allowed to passively die. It looks as if the farmers as a whole could not or will not see any farther than their pant's pocket. They had an opportunity but it will be a hard matter to awaken it again. Little personal jealousies were a great factor in the disruption coupled with the practical impossibility to hire brains and initiative, so essential in business, at a nominal salary. It has been a good bit of experience, but it has been tried in Lomond first.

Good Prospects for Railroad Construc- tion from Lomond to Kipp this Year

Friday's Albertan.

Charters for several new lines in the West will probably be asked for by the C. P. R. at the coming session of the Dominion Parliament, according to a statement made to The Albertan last evening by E. W. Beatty, president of the C. P. R., who visited the city yesterday on his way to Vancouver. The company has not yet decided, however, just what these charters will be.

One of them will probably be for the completion of the Kipp-Suffield line, from Lomond across to Kipp, in southern Alberta. This line was built from Suffield to Lomond some years ago, and the survey made at the time provided for the extension of the line from that point across country to Kipp, near Lethbridge. Another survey was made carrying the line into Blackie, to connect with the Lethbridge-Calgary-Aldersyde line. Neither extensions have been completed, however, but it is the intension of the railway company to build the Kipp extension first.

Mr. Beatty talked to a representative of The Albertan for a few minutes last evening following an informal dinner at the Palliser given for him by D. C. Colema, vice-president and general manager of western lines, and explained that the company was awaiting some declaration of policy from the dominion government as to the granting of charters the coming session, before formal application was made for charters for the C. P. R.

He stated that if the government was favorable, a charter would probably be applied for to complete the Kipp line, which would serve a very rich and well-settled country between Lethbridge and the main line of the C. P. R. to the north. Regarding other charters Mr. Beatty could say nothing as no definite decision has been reached by the directors as to where the new lines should be applied for. It is probable that there will be one or two more lines in this province.

"We will have our line completed into Drumheller this year," said the president, "and we hope to handle a large amount of coal traffic from that district."

GOVERNMENT HAS LINE ON SEED OATS

In those districts where the oat crop was a partial or total failure last season, farmers are becoming somewhat anxious as to the available supply of seed oats. There is a general tendency on part of the farmers who have seed oats for sale to withhold them until later in the winter. The movement of seed oats is delayed also, because transportation has been needed for coal, feed and livestock.

Possibly 400,000 bushels of seed oats may be required in Ontario and Quebec and a much larger quantity in Southern Alberta and Saskatchewan. The Canadian Government Seed Purchasing Commission already has substantial supplies in store in the Interior. Terminal Elevators, and large quantities of good-quality early-harvested oats are still to come forward. Alberta and Saskatchewan requirements will be given first consideration from the seed oats produced in these provinces.

The shortage in Ontario and Quebec may quite easily be met from the large and excellent oat crops in Prince Edward Island and Eastern Nova Scotia. No. 1 quality Island Banneder seed oats are now being delivered as far west as Toronto at a price comparable with Western seed oats of the same grade.

The price of No. 1 Seed oats delivered culkless at any point in Ontario and Quebec should not exceed the current Fort William cash price for No. 2 Western Western oats by more than 35 cts. per bushel. Registered and other select stocks true to variety may be higher in price.

The Dominion Seed Branch provides a system of grading and inspection, so that shippers in Western Canada or the Maritime provinces may make delivery of seed inspection certificates with their bills of lading. Purchasers of seed oats in any part of Canada may now buy on the basis of grade, No. 1 Seed, No. 2 Seed, etc., and subject to the delivery of seed inspection certificates.

Seed Commissioner.

Tom Chapman has been appointed returning officer for the municipal district elections, which take place on Feb. 27th.

D. T. Shallenbarger of Badger Lake has gone to Oklahoma on a business trip.

In a note to the Uxbridge Times Avery Miller of York Mills says: Enclosed is a $1.50 for the paper another year; also here is some news. I saw in your paper about the large egg, but I took a turkey to Toronto market and it weighed 27½ lbs., at 60 cts. per pound being $16.35 for one turkey. Can you beat it? "We cannot beat it, and we should not want to eat it at that price, is the editor's answer."

The Alberta Government through its "Cow Bill" presents an opportunity to the southern settlers with drought depleted herds to again make a start in the cattle industry. It would be well to make a new start with some defined policy as to an accepted breeding type and break away from the old haphazard methods that invariably gave the farmer cattle an inferior grading when put on the market. Experimental farm tests strongly favor the dual purpose shorthorn as the most desirable farm type.

The G. W. V. A. dance on Monday night had to be postponed on account of the severe weather, and it has been getting worse every day since, and it is thirty-six below today. A letter from Grant Haynes at Chilco, B. C., says that it has registered as low as 52 up there this winter.

The death occurred on Wednesday evening about eight o'clock of Anton Jensen, who had been seriously ill for some little time. Deceased was thirty-one years, ten months and eight days old when death intervened. A widow and three small children are left without paternal care. Besides these are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Jensen, and several brothers and sisters. The funeral is being held on Saturday from the Lomond Church, the Lutheran pastor from Enchant to conduct the services. Deceased was a member of the Lomond I.O.O.F. and Rebekah lodges, which are in making the funeral arrangements, and to the Vulcan Encampment as well. Interment will be made in the Lomond cemetery.

The annual general meeting of the shareholders of the Associated Farmers Limited was held in the hall Saturday afternoon, about twenty-five out of the two hundred shareholders being present. Nothing of any particular importance came up for discussion outside of the fact that the trustees refused to further assume personal liability for the financial obligations of the association, and were authorized to liquidate the stock to such an extent to clear themselves. The election of trustees put five of the existing board back, along with Jos. Smith and G. H. Ficht in the place of R. L. King and Stewart Galbraith. The future fate of the business was left in the hands of the trustees, but at the same time it is generally considered that a re-organization under new and sufficient capitalization is the only solution of the present conditions.

Clothes Don't Make the Man...

But! THEY HELP put your personality "across". This is just as true in regard to work clothes as in fine clothes. For instance, take the man with a cheap shrinking sweatshop-made pair of work pants on. He will most likely have a poor-cut, cheap-looking work shirt on to go with it. Does this kind of a get-up suggest economy? Or does it suggest a listless, lazy individual who knows he should economize and make the best of things, but why lacks the initiative to get busy and find out which is the real economical method?

A man OF THIS DISTRICT came into our store over a year ago. He rigged himself out with a couple of our military flannel shirts, a pair of our best grade Hewson tweed pants and a Kenyon mackinaw coat. When he got into the outfit he looked like a "real" fellow. His clothes were warm. They fit him good. They had good style. He could have bought a cheaper outfit at the time, but he is still wearing that outfit. And they still look good! They still show quality! He said when he bought them, "The Ultimate Cost will Determine their Worth."

I'll say he had some logic!

TRIBUTE TO A DOG

This is a speech made by the late Senator Vest of Missouri in a trial of a man who had wantonly shot a dog belonging to a neighbor. Mr. Vest represented the plaintiff who demanded $200 damages. As the result of the speech, the jury, after two minutes deliberation, awarded the plaintiff $500.

"Gentlemen of the Jury: The best friend a man has in this world may turn against him and become his enemy. His son or daughter that he has reared with loving care may prove ungrateful. Those who are nearest and dearest to us, those whom we trust with our happiness and good name, may prove traitors to their faith. The money that a man has, he may lose. It flies away from him, perhaps when he needs it the most. A man's reputation may be sacrificed in a moment of ill-considered action. The people who are prone to fall on their knees to do us honor when success is with us may be the first to throw the stone of malice when failure settles it cloud upon our heads. The one absolutely unselfish friend that a man can have in this selfish world, the one that never deserts him and the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous, is his dog.

"Gentlemen of the Jury, a man's dog stands by him in prosperity and in poverty; in health and in sickness. He will sleep on the cold ground, when the wintry winds blow and the snow drives fiercely, if only he may be near his master's side. He will lick the hand that has no food to offer, he will lick the wounds and sores that come in encounters with the roughness of the world. He guards the sleep of his pauper master as if he were a prince. When all other friends desert, he remains. When riches take wings and reputation falls to pieces, he is as constant in his love as the sun in its journey through the heavens. If fortune drives the master forth an outcast in the world, friendless and homeless, the faithful dog asks no higher privilege than that of accompanying him to guard against danger, to fight against his enemies, and when the last scene of all comes, and death takes the master in its embrace and his body is laid away in the cold ground, no matter if all other friends pursue their way, there by his graveside will the noble dog be found, his head between his paws, his eyes sad but open in alert watchfulness faithful and true even unto death."

There, a few dogs around Lomond to which this eulogy is superficial.
